PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It gives me great pleasure to congratulate all those students who have decided to create this permanent record of the activities and accomplishments of the academic year 1979-80. In so doing they are reviving a tradition of long standing. For many years our students published an annual yearbook. This custom gave alumni in later years a valuable record of their years at St. Michael's and at the University of Toronto. It was a great pity when rising costs and other factors caused this laudable custom to lapse. Those who have revived it are deserving of praise and encouragement.

Among the significant events of 1979-80 was the decision by the Collegium to offer accessor memberships to students, alumni and representatives of the general public. Six such memberships were created: Two were assigned to each of the foregoing three groups. In the case of students, one membership was offered to our undergraduates and the other to our graduate students. This step was taken to gain experience which would be helpful when deciding upon the nature of the amendments to be sought from the Ontario Legislature. Such amendments are needed if we wish to offer voting membership (presently restricted to ten persons, including seven who are ex-officio to a wider and more representative group.

The action of the Collegium just described is one more tangible expression of the fine spirit of cooperation among staff, students, alumni and friends which has always characterized St. Michael's in the past, and will, we fervently hope, continue to do so in the future.

Re. P.J.M. Swan, c.s.b.,
President.

Orientation '79 . . .

More than just Hoickety Choik on "C."

St. Michael's College has long stood out in the University of Toronto community as a bastion of spirit and self-expression, seemingly unequalled across campus. And I can't help feeling that the extensive labours channelled into the Orientation program over the years are the main reason. The importance of Orientation cannot be underestimated, because of any activity at St. Mike's, no other can claim more INPUT of money, effort and people (or OUTPUT of good times).

Not being satisfied with the already high standards set by Orientation Coordinators of the past, the most recent administration set out to define a set of objectives for the program which stressed the point that it was not just all for fun (even though it was one hell of a party!); but a vital process in making the bewildered first year student feel a little bit comfortable in this greater-than-average-size, rather alienating institution. This was accomplished by showing them all the procedures and forms to fill out, as well as just having group leaders around to answer questions that only a fellow student can answer.

Orientation is the one time of the year when even commerce students show some enthusiasm. In developing the SMC spirit and character, providing information, and displaying vividly how easy it is to have a rip-roaring time amidst widespread academia, the St. Mike's 2nd, 3rd and 4th years from all corners of the intellectual polygon, succeeded unquestionably in rendering St. Mike's a nicer place to learn, live, and grow. On this note, there arises an opportune moment to express my sincerest thanks to George Pasut, Don Walker, Bryon Woolf and all of the superb group leaders for doing such an A-1 job. And to say Thank you too for the incalcuable selfless hours put in by my co-coordinator Molly Smith (vice-president - SMCSU) and Terry Hart (Orientation Coordinator '77-'78) without whom this most successful of orientations would simply have been like one large Vic pub!

S.M.C.S.U.

It has given me a great deal of pride to review the academic year 1979-80, and to note the number of accomplishments achieved through the efforts and co-operation of both students and faculty at SMC. Both politically and socially, it has been a memorable year.

The high point of student political activity was the attainment of accessor membership on the Collegium, the highest governing body at St. Mike's. This culminated many years of effort on the part of both students and administrators in their attempts to find a mutually accomodating solution which would provide direct student input into this decision making body.

A full schedule of activities and events on our college campus added another dimension to our university careers, one not focused solely in the classroom. Orientation, the Friday night pubs, Oktoberfest, St. Pat's Day, the Double Blue Formal; the Italian, Ukranian, French and Celtic Arts Clubs; as well as Luncheon Lectures, film series, and wine and cheeses - all have fostered an atmosphere of community. The Debating Union and our Athletic teams as well have brought acclaim and recognition to our college.

For myself, it has been a year of new experiences. I have been particularly struck by the spirit co-operation exhibited not only between students but also between the faculty and the students. To those who I have worked with and who have helped to achieve a spirit of co-operation, I would like to express my sincerest thanks. It is through these mutal efforts on the part of all members of the St. Michael's community that we will retain our unique and very special character.

I wish you all a good summer and to those graduating, may you retain fond memories of your years at St. Michael's.

Sincerely,

Matt Holland

The establishment of any tradition is not an easy task. So it has been with this yearbook. Hampered by a late start, the production of this book continually faltered due to lack of supplies, money, time, and unfortunately interest. At the time of publication it is still not known whether there will in fact even be a Double Blue next year.

Although there were many problems with Double Blue '80, this is not to suggest that the book was not a success. All of the people that worked with me in creating this book are of a special character and nature, and gaining their friendship has made Double Blue, for me at least, a success of the highest order. There are a few of these people whom I would like to give special mention to. First, I would like to pay special thanks to Heidi Graham. Without her continual help and belief in the yearbook long after everyone else had ceased to believe, Double Blue '80 would not have been possible. Next, I would like to thank Ann McDonagh. Although her contribution to this book was not as tangible, perhaps, as others, her personality and friendship were a continual source of inspiration both for myself and the staff of Double Blue. I would also like to thank Matt Holland whose wit, continual reassurance, and doughnuts, helped instill a sense of unity into this staff. Lastly, special thanks go out to Tom Welch - wherever you are. It was his guidance and flair for artistry that is ultimately responsible for whatever class may be found within this book.

In closing, the staff of Double Blue have nothing to be ashamed of. If a yearbook becomes part of the St. Mike's tradition, then it was their staying up late and working at St. Mike's when deadlines approached, and running around getting names and pictures that helped to establish this tradition. If, as may happen, this is the first and last edition of Double Blue, then they can take solace in the fact that at least they tried.

Once again, to my staff and to those who provided us with the moments we have captured here in this book, thank you.
